Sharing and collaborating across the back office support services

With the increasing pressures on budgets and the need to maintain frontline capabilities it is essential that supporting services are maintained in order to support the transforming service delivered to the public.

Even though such services are hidden from the public a force can't operate without effective supporting services around HR, Payroll and Finance but these can be transformed themselves by deploying a fully integrated IT solution that helps a force rationalise their own services but also collaborate in a regional perspective to provide partners with a fully centralised shared service that can truly deliver cost savings but maintain the vital support to frontline operations.

Origin ERP is the leading solution in the UK Police providing a fully integrated suite of business processes including Duty Management which, when integrated with the Control Room, delivers HR, Rostering and Training data to the frontline and a full self-service facility designed for use in today's mobile working environment.

As well as being the leading solution Origin ERP is also leading the way in shared services with a regional solution deployed to multiple forces in the East Midlands, hosted by Derbyshire, and a shared solution deployed in the South Yorkshire and Humberside Collaboration Programme.

Not only are these forces benefitting from the cost and efficiency savings that an integrated ERP solution delivers but are realising further benefits by collaborating and sharing the solution with others.

- One customer forecasting a saving of £35m over 10 years by deploying Origin ERP with savings starting immediately on deployment

- Automated processes releasing staff for other work

- Reduction in admin centres supporting estate rationalisation strategies

- Streamlined processes providing more efficient support to staff
